

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. guest of Dr. Ralph Wheeler's family. William Douglas entertained the High King club at a three-course supper after which cards were played. Mr. Lynn Whaley was the winner of the first gentleman's prize and Mr. James Angell the second. Mrs. William Winbiger won the first prize for ladies and Mrs. Lynn Whaley the second. The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas on Caroline street was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

On Saturday last Miss Pomeroy was the hostess at a party given in honor of the approaching nuptials of Miss Harriet Lee and Mr. J. Francis Pierson, which will be consummated on Wednesday, November 18. The party was in the form of a kitchen shower and Miss Lee as guest of honor received many beautiful and useful articles for her future home.

December 1 is the new date set for the party to be given by the young ladies of the Kemper hall association. The former date set was November 24 but was changed owing to its conflicting with other entertainments planned for that time.

On Saturday evening Miss Helen Tracy entertained twelve of her little friends at a six o'clock luncheon at the home of her parents on North Jackson street. After a delightful repast games were played by the guests during the evening.

Mrs. A. E. Tanberg and Mrs. Chas. Tarrant were in Beloit Saturday to attend the social meeting of the Federation of Women's clubs of the city.

Mr. Clairmont Jackman and Mr. W. G. Wheeler returned on Saturday from Eagle river where they have been supervising the construction of a new summer cottage.

BEST GAME OF THE SEASON, SATURDAY

Seven Hundred People Crowd Side Lines and See Janesville Defeated.

Saturday's game with Fort Atkinson was the best of the season, in spite of the defeat which put the hitherto victorious Janesville pigskin racers out of the race for the state championship. Fully seven hundred people crowded the sidelines when the teams lined up a few minutes before three o'clock. The "Fort" eleven was the first on the field with their delegation of rooters, over two hundred strong, including a goat. The latter helped some. The visiting team after some limbering up plays, gathered near the west goal and awaited the time scheduled for the play to begin. The Fort Atkinson band lined up before the grand stand and started around the field, followed by several husky rooters who had charge of the mascot. The goat was elaborately dressed in red, the color of the school, and appeared to understand the importance of his official position. After this contingent the Fort Atkinson retainers came crowds of the "wearers of the red." A crowd of small boys brought up the rear of the procession which marched around the field to the tune of "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

A Lively Scene. Shortly after this the Bower City boys came out from behind the grand stand and their appearance was greeted with much enthusiasm by their adherents. Athletic field presented a lively scene with two hordes of ribbon-bedecked girls and groups of men. It seemed as though half of Janesville had come out to see the battle for the championship of southern Wisconsin. Besides many flags, banners, and ribbons nearly every visitor who wore huge red pompons which made an effective showing. The many gaily decorated rigs and automobiles which were stationed around the sides of the field added much to the picturesque of the picture. There was great enthusiasm on both sides and the yell after yell sounded over the usually quiet meadows of Spring Brook. The short determined yell of the men from Fort Atkinson: "The Fort, the Fort, the Fort, Rab, Rab," rather got the best of the more complicated war cry of the Janesville followers. A rope was strung along the north side of the gridiron and the spectators were kept off the lines better than in any previous game this fall. The Janesville boys played a plucky game but were clearly outclassed, especially in the last half. With the ball in their possession the home men made the best gains during the first twenty-five minutes but the team work of the Fort Atkinson men was fine. Their line bucking was far ahead of that usually seen in a secondary school eleven.

Sta. Team. For the home team, Galbraith, Locke, Flaherty, and in fact all did excellent individual work and the game could almost be said to have been lost on fumbles, as there were so many costly ones made. At the SUNDAY SERMON AT THE FIRST M. E.

REV. WARNER TAKES HIS TEXT FROM ZECHARIAH.

"SOUL OF THE CHURCH"

Gave an Interesting Discourse, Telling Many Facts of Interest.

At the First Methodist church yesterday Reverend Warner, the pastor, delivered an able address on "The Soul of the Church." He took his text from Zach. 4th chapter and 6th verse and said in part:

Corporations may live without souls; churches never. When the spirit leaves the body man dies. The church is the body of Christ. Destitute of His spirit it becomes a corpse. "Let this mind be in you which was in Christ." That is the soul of the church.

Said Napoleon: "Four o'clock courage is rare." The little corporal knew that during the closing part of every day of battle troops became weary and their spirits flagged.

Was afternoon in the history of the Jews. They had been waiting a losing fight with idolatry, one of the most seductive sins of the race. To forget some things is tragedy. Just as had forgotten God and had suffered seventy years of captivity. These awful years had burned out the desire to worship stocks and stones. No Jew has since been an idolater.

A Heroic Faith. With the spirit of the Pilgrim Fathers some of the Jews led by Ezra had journeyed from Babylon to Jerusalem. Though imperiled by wild beasts and robbers they asked no armed guards from the king of Babylon. Upon their arrival they addressed themselves first to rebuilding the city walls for their own protection? No. With sublime trust they gave their first thoughts, time and treasure to the erecting of the temple believing that God whom they thus sought to honor would care for them and their families.

These heroes looked out for number one but that One was God. They were shielded from dangers and were finally successful in their enterprise. God could not afford to let such men fail. What a lesson for modern selfishness. How many Americans like Dives spend their best on themselves, then shake the crumbs out for Christ who lies at their gate in the form of some needy Lazarus.

Tests of Character. Difficulties came to even these grand men. Funds ran low. Enemies threatened. Some of their own number said, "I told you so." Then the text rang among them like a bugle call. It is not by might (well drilled organization) or by power (any human or temporal force), but by my spirit, saith the Lord.

The Supreme Organizer. This passage does not oppose large organizations. God moves the stars in systems. The atoms are governed by mathematical ratios, proportion and affinities. The organic universe is filled with organizations instructive of life. Many to whom is given the dominion of the world, is the most highly organized of all. Combination is the watchword of modern life. In commerce, politics and society nothing tells like system.

A young American recently took charge of a shoe factory in Breslau, Germany, with the same machine and workman he quadrupled the output by introducing discipline. God evidently desires great churches to meet the great needs of the world. A large church animated by the mind of Christ can do more work than a small church. When a powerful church refuses to obey the Lord some Ezra, Luther or Wesley rallies his few feeble followers and does the work. A church is useful in proportion to the amount of the spirit of Christ it possesses. The number of its working members and the efficiency of its organization.

Drones Don't Count. Method in church work tells as it does everywhere. Systematic work is as much needed in building a life as in making a living. United effort will succeed in saving men just as it does in making farm machinery. A church great or small without the Christ spirit is a big farce. A lot of little churches in a small town spending their energies in meeting their expenses and in rivaling each other are a travesty on the gospel. Wesley said I desire a league defensive and offensive with every soldier of Christ. This is the spirit of God.

What is Spirituality? It is not a long face nor simply a state of ecstasy. It does not consist in observing church forms and ceremonies nor in selfishly living alone for heaven. Spirituality is Christ likeness. It is obtained by learning about Him, by communing with Him and by giving ourselves to Him in service to others. Then we find our life in the death of self, our gain in the loss of all things that hinder our growth Christward and our greatest joy in serving our fellowmen. Let us fill our churches with this spirit and the weak ones will come together and the strong will be mightier in helping the world.

Machinist Frank Drew and Gordon Erickson and Blacksmith Nicholas also worked all day and night to get her in shape. The eccentric cam strap of locomotive 756, Engineer Noel, broke at Cary and it was necessary to take down the left main rod, block the cross-head, tamp the valve-stem, and bring her on her side. It took again for her work on the gravel train.

Locomotive 771 broke her eccentric cam strap in much the same manner as 756 this morning and was brought into the shop for repairs.

Considerable importance is attached to the visit to New Orleans of Messrs. Adam Reuelinck and W. They are understood to be looking into local conditions in connection with an arrangement between the Kansas City Southern and the Red River Valley road, whereby the Kansas City Southern may find an outlet through New Orleans. Its present Gulf port is Port Arthur. The Red River Valley shortly will have a through line from Shreveport to New Orleans and has been planning for a steamer line to Europe.

RAILROADS DO BIG BUSINESS IN JANESVILLE.

THE DAILY AVERAGE IS HIGH

Traffic on Interurban Increasing—Hard Work for the Ticket Agent.

Of the thousands of people who approach a ticket window in the various railway offices, few ever stop to think the man behind the bars has ought to do other than look pleasant and hand out pastebars. Many a person will commiserate the ticket agent and say, "How tired you must be of standing so much at this window." The man behind the counter doesn't feel that way, however. The passing out of tickets and the handling of the money is a part of the ticket man's play. He has to do it only at train times, and between has long waits, which are wearisome indeed, for they are filled in by the most trying and annoying of labor.

The average railway company is a pretty particular institution, and its employees have to show just how the business is conducted. The ticket agent is under a stringent set of rules. His tickets are issued to him as often as he makes requisition, but he has to give receipts for them, which hold him absolutely to account, and guard against the possibility of mistake. This stock of tickets has to be reported on daily, and weekly, and monthly, and the agent makes reports until his hands are worn out with the apparently useless effort. There are two main classes of tickets, the common interlineal and the card or simplex ticket. When these come to the office they have a full and complete description as to every point, and the receipt returned by the agent, ties him up so that any mistake on his part may be traced with the utmost ease. At the end of each day the ticket agent must sit down and count up his sales. He has to make a report showing the number of tickets sold from the several classes, if coupon, their description, and finally he must add the day's cash account.

This would seem sufficient, but at the end of the week he goes over it again, though hardly so much in detail. At the end of the month comes another report, and this is the most minute, careful and detailed of all. In the average ticket office in a city like Janesville the agent must spend no less than three hours per day at this trying work on his books. It must be absolutely accurate. Mistakes are not tolerated; hence it is trying indeed. The ticket agents of Janesville handle a big business. In recent years there has been an enormous increase in the volume of passenger traffic, and in consequence the roads sell many tickets and handle much money.

The daily average of tickets sold at the Janesville stations is about three hundred each. It is impossible to average the cost of these tickets, but the business done at the ticket offices can be easily averaged. A poor day in a Janesville office can run as low as $100. When there are special excursions the business will run as high as $1500. This means a big sum for the railroad companies, and it would be a fair proposition to add to this the income of the interurban company and as soon as the systems to Janesville are developed, it will stand high. The earnings of electric roads are nearly always equal, if not superior to those of the steam lines which lay parallel. The development of the roads will bring many people to the Bower city so it would not be at all surprising if within three years the passenger farepaid at local ticket offices should amount to the great sum of half a million dollars annually.

WELL STAGED SHOW AT OPERA HOUSE

"Down by the Sea" Pleased Many, on Saturday Evening—Fannie Curtis Good.

"Down by the Sea" was presented at the Myers Grand opera house Saturday evening to a good sized audience and from the first to the last the gallery goers evinced their enthusiasm by multitudinous applause for the heroine and hisses for the villains. Fannie Curtis, the leading lady, took the part of the village belle in a way which won the hearts of all. The plot of the play was laid in a New England sea coast village and the storm scenes were effective in calling forth rounds of applause. The views of the lighthouse on the rocks were excellent and the supporting company was all that could be desired. The play was clean, stirring and home like and was one of the best attractions that has been presented in some time.

CAUSE FOR CONTENTMENT. Census reports and the dictionary are usually considered dry reading, but it is refreshing to learn from the former that the much maligned Badger state is in healthy condition and that property values as well as farm products compare favorably with other states. The value of wheat per acre is $9.20 as compared with $6.78 in Iowa. Corn in Wisconsin $6.12. Iowa, $5.92. Oats, $7.58 against $7.08. Barley $12.45 in Iowa $8.50 and all other crops in proportion.

These conditions exist in spite of the "Villainous Railroads with their extortionate rates." Figures are good things to conjure with and they can be made to prove almost any assertion when properly manipulated, but census figures are reliable.

The Wisconsin farmer has occasion to be thankful that he lives in the best state in the union. He enjoys not only the benefits of a good home market, but he is in close touch with the best outside markets. His land is worth more per acre than in Iowa because it produces more and the product brings more money. All that the state needs is a governor who will be satisfied to appreciate conditions and let well enough alone.

HAWAIIAN SUGAR.

The announcement that the Hawaiian sugar crop of 1903 is 420 thousand tons, or 840 million pounds, lends special interest to some figures recently presented by the Department of Commerce and Labor, through its Bureau of Statistics, covering the growth of sugar production in Hawaii under the close commercial relations with the United States established by the reciprocity treaty in 1876, and further developed by annexation in 1898. These figures show that the sugar production of Hawaii in 1903 was practically thirty-five times as great as that of the period immediately preceding the reciprocity treaty of 1876 the sugar production of Hawaii averaged about 2 million pounds per annum. Within two years following the reciprocity treaty the production doubled; by another two years it had quadrupled. By the end of the first decade under reciprocity it was nearly ten times as great, and the growth during the entire period has continued at a very rapid rate. The rapidity of growth in sugar production in Hawaii during the period under consideration is shown by the following figures of production at decennial periods:

1873	22, 129, 101
1883	114, 107, 155
1903	840, 000, 000

It will be seen that the increase in the decade from 1873 to 1883 was nearly 100 million pounds; from 1883 to 1893, about 200 million pounds, and from 1893 to 1903 about 500 million pounds. The development of sugar production during the first decade was in bringing under cultivation lands capable of producing sugar without irrigation; during the second decade irrigation was applied in the least difficult sections; during the third decade the development of irrigation and application of high-grade modern machinery to production greatly developed. The irrigation system now applied in Hawaii is of great importance and has brought under cultivation large areas which were absolutely valueless for sugar production without the application of water by artificial methods. More than one-half of the sugar of Hawaii is now produced from irrigated lands.

In this development of Hawaiian sugar production American capital and American energy have been the chief factors. A statement recently received from a high authority in Hawaii by the Bureau of Statistics indicates that about 100 million dollars of capital from the United States have been invested in Hawaii since the reciprocity treaty of 1876, a large part of this having been so invested since annexation, in 1898.

This development since annexation in the increased investments in capital from the United States and its application to irrigation in its highest forms has resulted in an increase of more than 50 per cent. in the sugar production of the islands, the production of 1897 being 562 million pounds, that of 1903, 840 million pounds.

The Hawaiian Islands now stand third in the list of sections producing cane sugar for exportation. Curiously, all of the great cane sugar exporting spots of the world are islands. Cuba stands at the head of the list, with an annual exportation under normal conditions of over 2 billion pounds; Java next, with an average annual production of 1 1/2 billion pounds, while the Hawaiian Islands have now nearly reached the 1 billion mark. China and India are also large producers of cane sugar, but consume practically all of their production, their exportation being small.

Sugar production in the Hawaiian Islands has developed much more rapidly during the last thirty years than in any other cane producing section of the world. The production in Java grew from 432,320,000 pounds in 1875 to 1,887,899,000 pounds in 1903, or less than five times as much in 1903 as in 1875. Cuba has increased its production from 1,736,000,000 pounds in 1873 to 2,183,000,000 in 1903, while that of Hawaii, as already indicated, has grown from 23 million pounds in 1873 to 840 millions in 1903. Thus, Java's production is now less than 60 per cent while that of Hawaii is about thirty-five times as great as in 1873. Meantime, the cane sugar production of the world has grown from 1,793,000 tons in 1873 to 4,118,000 tons in 1903, having about trebled during that period. The best-sugar production of the world has grown from 1,210,000 tons in 1873 to 5,520,000 tons in 1903, being about four and one-half times as much in 1903 as in 1873.

Hawaii's share in supplying the sugar consumption of the United States has increased very rapidly since the reciprocity treaty of 1876. Prior to that date sugar imported from Hawaii formed about 1 1/2 per cent of the total importation, while in the fiscal year 1903 Hawaii supplied about 15 per cent of the total brought into continental United States.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chicago Record Herald: Mrs. Roland B. Molneux has been married to the lawyer who secured a divorce for her. Some people would do almost anything to get out of paying a lawyer his fee.

New York Mail and Express: The venerable John H. Reagan of Texas, thinks the union is going to be dissolved—in spite of the fact that it proved horribly insoluble the last time he tried it.

Chicago, Inter Ocean: In some respects trades union power has grown dangerously great. Therefore, to assist the right of collective bargaining for employers is not only favored by the most sagacious leaders of organized labor. However, to attempt an exterminating warfare upon all trades unions because of their abuses is as foolish as to declare a similar warfare against joint stock corporations because of their abuses.

New York World: Sir Wilfrid Laurier says he "often regretted that Canada was lying alongside a grasping and powerful nation like the United States." If the United States really were the grasping nation Sir Wilfrid says it is Canada would not now be "lying alongside" it. It would, like the lamb with the lion, be reposing inside.

New York Mail and Express: An artificial ice company has been formed with a capital of $10,000.00. This is what might be termed a cold business proposition.

New York Tribune: Were American railroads over busied? Could there be better proof that the country is soundly prosperous, no matter what passing furies may cause temporary uneasiness in Wall street.

Chicago Chronicle: The good old-fashioned, time honored one man office a year ballot was all the initiative and referendum that the people of Ohio needed to pass on Tom Johnson's case.

Oshkosh Times: The hunter who shoots another in the woods should be vigorously resected. No man has any business shooting at anything until he sees what it is.

Marquette Eagle and Star: If Colombia does not want a canal through her territory, Uncle may take the isthmus off her hands.

Fond du Lac Reporter: Let the rural communities demand traveling libraries as a right rather than expect to receive them as a gift and the county board will grant the demand.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Russia continues to fret about that open door in Manchuria. Perhaps she is afraid it will let in a chilling draft which may interfere with her own commerce in that part of the world.

It is the worst luck imaginable to meet a bill collector the day after pay day.

By keen observation I have learned that it is the worst of luck possible to die on Friday.

It is very bad luck to have the smallpox, the measles and the shingles at one and the same time.

It is very bad luck to get married if your wife's mother is alive, and you are taking chances, anyhow.

To break both legs and an arm on Tuesday is bad luck, but to break both arms and both legs on Wednesday is worse luck.

Avoid, if possible street car accidents on Wednesday. It is tough fortune, indeed to fall under a cable car on Thursday.

It is horrible luck to commit suicide on Saturday, and it is also pretty bad luck to cut your throat on Sunday or drink carbolic acid on Monday.

There are so many people who believe in luck and place faith in signs that I have decided to offer a few observations in regard to the matter.

Some people believe in signs and some do not. There was a man once who did not believe in them and he walked on the grass and got pinched.

It is unfortunate to fall down a steep stairway on any day of the week, especially if there is a bucket of coal or a pail of soft soap at the bottom.

It is most unfortunate to go broke on Monday. It is also bad luck to be without money on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

It is bad luck to lose five cents, but of course, it is worse to lose twenty-five cents. Some people think it is very bad luck to lose a meal ticket. But of course, all depends where a man is boarding.—"S. M. Arty," in Chicago Chronicle.

PROPOSING.

"A man who proposes to an old maid is an old fool."

"Be careful of your words. A girl may refuse you if you say, 'Do you love me?' who would gladly throw herself into your arms if you ask, simply, 'Will you marry me?'"

"Propose to a Chicago girl on the third visit, and to the Philadelphia girl after eight years: A telegram does nicely for a Kansas girl. To propose to a Fifth avenue girl, see her legal adviser."

"In proposing to an heiress, use the term, 'May I be yours?' The time to propose to an actress is just before she brings her breach of promise suit. The time to propose to a widow is when you call and she is out."

"A proposal should be accompanied by a kiss, as evidence of good faith. If you are timid, ask a hypothetical question, thus, 'Milly, if a man about my prospects and build should ask you to marry him, what would you say?' Leave the rest to Milly."

"The dark is the proper environment for a proposal. Be reasonably certain, however, that you are talking to the right girl. Marriage will prove to you conclusively whether or not it was the right girl," says Norman Harris, in Life.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

The smart man is not the one who keeps out of trouble, but who gets out.

Being in one's second childhood does not mean having a second crop of children.

Every time a woman tells a funny story the man who proposes it turns over in his grave.

A woman is always sure a man loves her if he will only pretend to get mad when she receives a letter in a man's handwriting.

If a woman can't find anything else to brag about her husband she will tell how dignified he was when his landlord insulted him.

TOBACCO TALK AS CROPS STAND

INTERESTING GOSSIP ON SALES AND NEW CONDITIONS.

ALL CROPS MOVING SLOWLY

Some Good Prices Are Paid for Tobacco, and Shipping Continues.

Though buyers are still holding aloof from the new crop much activity continues to be noticeable in the cured lists. Old stock in country hands is being absorbed quite freely and trading among packers is assuming larger proportions than for some time past. George Decker has purchased 103 cases of '01 of O. A. Peterson, of Orfordville, O. S. Baines has bought 113 cases of F. C. Colony of Evansville, Ind. McIntosh Bros., of Edgerton, have purchased a 300 case packing of '01 from a Sun Prairie packer, and W. T. Pomeroy & Co., report the sale of 300 cases of '01 and '02 goods.

Ready For Stripping.
The weather has been so favorable that the new crop, in most instances, is thoroughly cured in the sheds and stripping may be commenced with the first ensuing weather.

In Eastern Markets.
While no exceptionally large transactions in 1932 Wisconsin tobaccos in the eastern markets were reported for the week all reports agree that they are being well received and that is a good healthy demand. A few hundred cases of picks were disposed of at about 22 cents and some 2,300 cases, running, fillers out, were sold at 16 to 18 cents in the New York market. It is the general opinion in that quarter that at the prevailing prices for running lots, there cannot be a large margin of profit for the packers, since the cost of clean packings this year foots up to a rather high figure.

Crop Reports.
In Massachusetts and Connecticut the condition of the 1932 tobacco crop stands high and it is the general opinion that it has never been equalled for soundness of leaf and color. No buyers, have appeared. Buyers for the American Cigar Co., are sizing up the new crop in Ohio. The buying of the new crop has commenced in Pennsylvania and Mr. Levy of the American Cigar Manufacturers is reported to have secured 1,500 cases. Others are in the field. The prevailing prices are eight and two cents.

INTERNAL REVENUE REPORTS

The internal revenue receipts for the month of September show increases only in two branches of the trade industries, namely in the production of cigars and snuff. The increase in the output of cigars amounted to 2,231,367 in a total output of 599,035,727 against a total output of 576,804,470 in September 1930, and the increase in snuff amounted to 319,541 pounds in a total production of 1,544,617 pounds in September of last year.

Cigarettes Decrease.
In little cigars cigarettes and manufactured tobacco there was a decrease in little cigars amounting to 15,233,500 in a total output of 56,157,500 in September, 1932; the decrease in cigarettes amounting to 24,437,706 in a total output of 246,167,490 against a total output of 273,635,196 during the same month of last year, and the decrease in manufactured tobacco amounted to 6,325,159 pounds in a total production of 25,931,981 pounds against a total production of 32,257,140 pounds in September 1930.

CREAMERIES ARE TO BE KEPT CLEAN

Food Commissioner Emery Cause
Several Prosecutions and Two Arrests Reported

The law providing penalties for proprietors of creameries and cheese factories who operate their places in an unclean and unsanitary condition is being vigorously enforced by State Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery. J. P. Eiten, who conducts a cheese factory at Green Leaf, Brown county, was arrested Friday on complaint of an agent of the dairy and food department, brought before a justice of the peace and charged with violation of the statute. The defendant pleaded guilty, was fined $25 and costs and the fine was remitted by the justice on the promise of the defendant to immediately remedy conditions in his factory. The object of the commissioner in making the prosecutions is to cause the law to be observed rather than to compel operators to pay heavy fines. It is thought that the proprietors throughout the state will heed the lesson after a few prosecutions have occurred. August Kraker of Brillion was arrested on a similar charge. He entered a plea of not guilty and the trial was set for November 17.

The prosecutions are made under chapter 67 of the laws of 1903, particularly section 4, which provides as follows: "All premises and utensils employed for the manufacture or sale of food products from milk, or cream from the same, which shall not be kept in clean and good sanitary conditions are hereby declared to be unclean and unsanitary. Any milk dealer or any person, firm or corporation furnishing milk or cream to such dealer, and any person, firm or corporation, or the employee of such person, firm or corporation, who operates a creamery, cheese factory of milk condensing factory, or manufactures, reworks or packs butter for sale as a food product, shall maintain his premises and utensils in a clean and sanitary condition." The penalty provided is a fine of $25 to $100 or imprisonment in jail for 30 to 60 days.

HAZEL MILLER SOUGHT DEATH

After a Quarrel with Sweetheart—
Swallowed Six Tablets of Morphine in Presence of Male Friend.

Upon returning to her home with a young man named Churchill Saturday evening, Hazel Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Miller, who reside at 255 Ringold street, stepped to a medicine chest in one corner of the sitting room, opened it, extracted six tablets from a tube which it contained. The young man paid no particular attention to the proceeding and when the young lady announced a few moments later that she had taken poison, treated the matter as a joke.

Doctor Sent For.
This happened some time after eight o'clock. As the hour hand neared nine the girl began to exhibit symptoms of illness and the young man, who had continued to regard all of her statements as part of some foolery which he did not quite understand, became thoroughly alarmed. He hastily sought a telephone and called upon Dr. Merritt, requesting him to come at once. When the physician arrived in the scene, a few moments later, the girl was in agony.

It Was Morphine.
The tablets contained morphine and the dose was sufficient to cause death. It was necessary to resort to extreme measures to relieve her. The physician had arrived in the nick of time and after working over the sufferer for some hours, announced that he considered her out of danger. Her improvement continued today and her complete recovery is looked for within a day or two.

A Love Affair.
The motive of the girl's rash act is attributed to a quarrel with her sweetheart which occurred some days ago. It appears that she had confided some details of this quarrel to the young man who accompanied her home from his house, where she had been visiting early in the evening. She told the doctor that she had intended to take her life. She has evidently repented her action as she threw away a tube containing some more of the poison, yesterday.

HOODLUMS BURN SCHOOL PROPERTY

ENTERED SCHOOL ON EMERALD
GROVE ROAD—BURN PROPERTY.

STAYED THERE SEVERAL HOURS

They Destroyed Books and Broke Up Tables, To Keep the Room Warm.

Drunken hoodlums broke into the schoolhouse in the Proctor district, three miles east of the city on the Emerald Grove road Saturday night and committed a series of deviltries seldom equaled, using all the library and school books for fuel to warm the room during their drunken spree.

Discovered by Teacher.
The first intimation any one had that things were not all right at the building was when Miss Leo Proctor, teacher at the school, went to the seat of learning Sunday morning to attend to some work. On entering the room a scene of the utmost confusion presented itself. In place of the well-kept collection of books, which served as a library for the scholars, a heap of ashes remained.

All Loose Articles Burned.
The orderly rows of desks containing the books of the scholars were upset and their contents scattered and partly destroyed, the big dictionary which was worth several dollars in itself, had been ruthlessly chopped, torn apart and burned, and the many other articles in common use in a country school and which had been left in their proper places when the scholars left Friday afternoon, were found scattered and ruined Sunday morning.

Toughs Stayed All Night.
The condition showed that whoever the toughs who committed the depredations were, they had used the room for an extended debauch and evidently remained there most of the night. It was apparent that they had effected an entrance through a window although the door had also been opened. When the supply of books had given out and the other loose articles had been thrown in the stove to keep up the temperature of the room, the marauders proceeded to attack a large table and soon it was a mass of splinters and these followed the books.

Miss Proctor immediately reported the trouble to West Frost, the clerk of the Porter school district, but this morning it did not appear that anything had been done towards apprehending the criminals.

LATEST GOSSIP FROM WINDY CITY

T. P. on Chan. e at the Closing of Today's Markets in Chicago.

Wheat market opened 3/4 lower today on both options influenced by weak cables. St. Louis and the northwest were heavy sellers with local professionals tending out. The December lost one cent and May 3/4c. There was some support early at the decline.
May, both practically closed at the lowest prices. Primary receipts 1,696,326 against 1,855,133 a year ago. Northwest cuts 1480 against 1367 a year ago. The weakness in wheat today was caused principally by heavy northwest receipts and large world shipments. The St. Louis clique threw a large quantity of wheat on the market here, but we think that liquidation has about ended. Would recommend the purchase of May wheat on any further decline.

Corn opened weak in sympathy with wheat. Scattered selling by local professionals and filled out longer around the opening broke the market half a cent. The government report tomorrow is expected to be a bullish factor in corn. There was good support at the decline by commission houses having reselling orders in hand. Primary receipts 466,510 against 350,500 last year. We advise the purchase of corn on all declines for the present.

LINSEED OIL IS AT A LOW POINT

Retails in Janesville at Fifty Cents
a Gallon—Over-Production Is Claimed.

The price of raw linseed oil in can lots has reached a very low mark in Janesville. The material is retailed at 40 and 50 cents and a gallon of boiled linseed at a few cents higher. It formerly sold at $1, but during the past few years has experienced a remarkable drop. The decline is ascribed to the gradual decline in over-production. Flax is being sold at 10 cents a pound. This is also considered quite a low figure.

Linseed oil and flax of course are used in considerable quantities at paint shops and an estimate places the amount of linseed consumed in Janesville during the past season at about 800 barrels.

The seasons of 1896-1897 and 1897-1898 were periods of cheap oil, and during the long industrial depression following the general slump-up of 1893, oil sold down about 20c. Since then, and until recently, high prices have ruled. No one pretends to say whether bottom has been reached or not. Primarily this depends upon the flax market, and the flax market will be governed from now on largely by the attitude of the big buyers towards their raw material, and by changes for the better or for the worse in the general industrial situation. One local manufacturer says that while 25,000,000 bushels of seed were reduced to oil last year, not more than 17,000,000 bushels will be crushed this season.

May Drop Lower.
A still lower price in oil is considered a possibility. This, however, would mean 35c flax, and flax has not broken through 30c. Seed men are hopeful that it will not go under 30c, as there has already been a heavy movement. For a week or two yet the rush of flax to market can hold against it for a fortnight longer, moderate recovery in prices should follow as the movement lessens in volume.

BOLD THIEVES SECURE PLUNDER

ROBBED BONAHOON & BACCASH'S STORE, SUNDAY NIGHT.

THEY SECURED SIXTY DOLLARS

Made Their Entrance Through the Back Door, by Cutting Out the Glass.

Between the hours of 11:30 last night and seven this morning the candy and fruit store of Bonaheon & Baccash, on the bridge, was entered by thieves and robbed of sixty dollars in money, four packages of Duke's mixture and the bank books and blank checks of the First National bank and all the accounts and bills of the company. The work was cleverly done and while the police have a clue to the thieves no arrests have as yet been made.

Entered Rear Door.
The entrance was easily accomplished through the back door of the store. Along the rear of the stores on the bridge a narrow porch extends. To walk from across the river to the rafters from the bridge would be but a simple trip and none of the rear doors or windows are in any way molested so the thieves had only to cut out a pane of glass and put their hands and turn the catch. In this case the lower portion of the glass was broken out after the woodwork had been cut off, presumably with a knife.

Stone Dark.
It was then plain sailing as the store was dark and the men could without being seen from the street. In one drawer was five dollars in change and the other behind the counter case contained the rest of the money and the bills and bank book. Both were easily opened and the contents taken. The whole job would not have taken five minutes to perform.

Suspicious Characters

Three men who wandered about the bridge for some time last evening and watched Mr. Baccash close up were noted by passers and it is thought that they were the ones who did the trick. They could have gone down the steps by the Rock County bank and then crossed the stringers of the bridge with ease and returned the same way as easily.

HARRY DANIEL'S MINOR OBSERVATIONS

The Farmer Versus the Automobile.

Neither one of the fellows lost any time gittin' out.

he yanks open the throttle and adjusts himself for a pleasant voyage over the bounding turnpike will insist that he has a perfect right to the public highway, while the farmer will declare that any contrivance that comes along the road and scares a yearling steer until it unfurls its tail to the air and runs through four barns and a strawstack before it can be stopped is a positive menace and everything else he can lay his tongue to.

A farmer told me his side of the question the other day as we sat side by side on a rail fence and looked out across a sunny field that had been wounded in several places by a team of horses which had come through that way in their efforts to throw some automobile off the scent.

"Them automobilions fellers with ear-bobs over their eyes like all other criminals wear is goin' to ruin the farmers' prospects and everything else the live stock kin trample down when they're confused in their heads and are tryin' to git out of the clutches of a horseless ker-ridge," said he, with just the faintest suspicion of a dialect.

"Farmin' was once a peaceful perfession, and when a man started out in the a. m. to comb down a piece of land with a spring-tooth harry he knew jest about what was before him. But now, before the day's done, he may be tryin' to harry the shingles off the roof of his barn, or he may be ketchin' a tryin' to jerk all the epydermis off of his front yard er curryin' down the landscape somewhere else that don't petikularly need it, jest because some automobile has come along gaspin' fer breath and scarin' the horses into a panic. You can't raise cattle on a successful basis and have 'em tryin' to seek a place of shelter up a lightnin' rod every few minutes, and no farmer, no matter how educated and smart he may be, kin have good luck with hogs when they try to climb the windpump every time a city cuss comes along in his automobile.

"Last summer they was a party of automobilers consistin' of two men came along here about 4 p. m. headed in a northerly direction with all sails set and a clear sea ahead. Everything seemed to be goin' fine and they were removin' the pike to the rear at a perty brisk canter." But jest as they was passin' my place the machine stopped all of a sudden without a second's warnin', began to dance around on one wheel a minute and then busted with all hands on board.

"It sounded like the vest pocket edition of a Fourth of July celebration. Neither one of the fellers lost any time gittin' out. One of 'em decided to dismount over the dashboard on the back of his neck while the other one hurried into a fence corner on the starboard side.

"Two weeks afterward I found a pair of green-eyed goggles and a safety valve imbedded in the side of my barn and there is still a bad hole in the roadside to mark the spot where the circumstance transpired.

"It gave my live stock and poultry the worst skeer of which they had ever partaken. They had frequently been called on to flee for their lives at the approach of an automobile, but this was the first time they had ever seen one have spasms that way. When I heard the commotion and ran out of the barn everything about the place 'peared to have taken wing. The hired man was seated on the hurricane deck of a sulky plow and was urg'in his horse up a tree in the orchard. He said afterward that the horse had to try several trees before it found one it could climb successfully.

"I ran to the scene of the disaster as fast as my legs would carry me, expectin' to see a picture of horror and dismay, and I was not disappointed. The man who had disembarked over the prow of the shebang had got the mainspring or something of that kind wound around his neck like a yarn scarf and was sittin' in the middle of the road, strugglin' to git free, while the one who had chosen the fence corner for his destination was havin' a ketch-es-ketch-kin rasslin' match with one of the newmattik wheels and had dislocated his toilet in several places. When he went out of the machine he forgot to take his shirt bosom with him and left it hangin' on the corner of the dashboard to show that that was the shortest known way out. If you approached from the right direction you could also see that he had mislaid the west half of his coat somewhere.

"I asked the chap in the road if I could do anything for him except to throw him down and see if I could take the mainspring away from him. But he said if I would kindly reach up under his vest and remove the gasoline tank he could ask nothin' more.

"The machine was fatally injured. Everthing that lovin' hands could do was done to restore it to a normal frame of mind again but it was too far gone. It jumped around a few times on its side and then breathed its last while me and the two mariners looked on in pity. Then we gathered up the remains with a scoopshovel and hauled 'em to town in a wagon.

"But, I say, it mighty nigh ruined me. Git a lot o' live stock all embarrassed and het up thataway and trampin' down your grain and hired help, and holdin' a caucus in the wheatfield and then adjournin' to meet shortly afterward over in the oats, I say, is bad for a farmer. And so I claim these here automobiles nosin' around and bustin' jest as they git to your place and fillin' the atmosphere full of monkey-wrenches and city inhabitants and scatterin' kerosine and biled shirts permiscusly around over the place has got to stop er, I say, the farmer is a doomed man."

Celt and German in America.

Seventy-five per cent of our foreign born population in 1900 was of Teutonic and Celtic stock—the very same that made the English. Of course, a still larger percentage of the native born are of these races and of their admixture. It is an error, then, to talk of the American people as a conglomeration of races. There is an American race, formed by fusion of the original races that made the English.

Words of Wisdom.

Perhaps there was never voiced a more potent truth than that which asserts that "the worth of civilization is the worth of the man at its center. When this man lacks moral rectitude, progress only makes bad worse, and further embroils social problems."

SIGNS BOND TO REFUND MONEY

King's Pharmacy and Peoples Drug Co., Takes All Risk of Mi-na Curing Dyspepsia and Building Up Flesh.

It is an easy thing for medicine to be advertised as guaranteeing cure, money refunded, etc., or have the druggist say, "Well, yes, if it does not help we will return your money," but if the medicine does not give satisfaction and the customer goes back to the dealer, the probability is that he has forgotten what he said and there is a question about making the refund.

King's Pharmacy and Peoples Drug Co., in a very business like way overcomes this trouble in a clear and definite manner, by giving the following bond with every package of Mi-na that they sell.

GUARANTEE BOND.

We hereby agree to refund the price paid for Mi-na if the purchaser tells us that it has not increased flesh and gives freedom from stomach troubles.

King's Pharmacy & Peoples Drug Co.

If you want your money back they will return it to you if you can tell them that Mi-na has not increased flesh and given freedom from stomach troubles.

It is an unusual remedy that can be sold in this way, but Mi-na is a remarkable combination of flesh-forming elements combined with agents that regulate the digestive organs and restore health and strength.

Remember that if Mi-na does not do all that is claimed for it, your money is returned to you by King's Pharmacy and Peoples Drug Co., in accordance with this bond.

Pugilistic Talk,

Munroe and Jeffries Playing Tag - Who Is "It?" Jabez White.

Jack Munroe, the miner-boxer, is still playing tag with Jim Jeffries. The much talked of bout originally scheduled for October is still hanging in the balance, and neither of the big flat jockeys appears to be worrying about the outcome of negotiations.

No one capable of forming a trustworthy opinion on affairs pugilistic believes that Munroe has even a ghost of a show against the champion. Munroe is big and strong, and here his list of attributes comes to a sudden stop. He has but little knowledge of ring tactics, and as for skill—well, the least said the better. Should Munroe stay more than two rounds with Jeffries he will surprise even himself. Deep down in his heart Munroe knows that he is not in the same class as Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Corbett, Rudin or any other good fighter. For obvious reasons, however, he chooses to use every endeavor toward having the public consider him a real live member of the fighting fraternity.

According to reports, Jeffries says that unless he puts Munroe out before the expiration of the twenty rounds he will forfeit the winner's share of the purse.

Munroe seems well pleased with the outlook, even though Jeff recently stated that he would not fight the miner.

"I have been anxious to clinch a match with Jeffries ever since our bout last winter," said Munroe. "You know Jeffries has been making all kinds of excuses about his shoving in that fight, and I want to show him up. If I were in condition, I would jump on a train and fight Jeffries in a week. But a fellow must be right when he meets the champion."

"I am ready to sign at once, Jeffries' offer to put me out before the limit is all bosh. I don't know whether he made the statement or not, but I guess he is too wise to stand by it. I would prefer the match to be for twenty rounds, as it will give an opportunity to show which is the better man."

Jabez White, the famous English light weight, expects soon to sail for America to arrange terms to meet Jimmy Britt.

White has a good record. He has defeated all the Britishers in his class. He has confidence to spare. He does not consider Britt so fast and strong as the Californian's admirers declare him to be, and White will have all the opportunity he wants to verify his opinion, if he is able to do so.

Britt is nothing short of a phenomenon, and of White he says, "I'll eat him alive." White demands an allowance of $1,000 for expenses and asks for $3,500 whether he wins or loses.

BUNCH OF APHORISMS.

Few women are skeptical as to their beauty. There are no free passes on the road to success. Blessings often come disguised, but trouble is bare-faced. Honesty is the best policy, as a lot of people know from experience. It's natural that too many highballs should cause a man to get all balled up. The rich man often finds it easier to write a check than to right a wrong.

FOREST CITY TEACHERS HERE

They Are Inspecting Janesville Schools Today—Thirty Arrived From Rockford This Morning.

Teachers from three of the Rockford schools are visiting the Janesville seats of learning today. They arrived this morning on the interurban nearly thirty in number and divided into parties, each of which inspected a few of the Janesville city schools. In the earlier part of the fall, a number of the local instructors went to the Forest city and were the guests of the teachers there and today the latter are returning the compliment by observing how the youthful in Janesville are led on the "flowery path to knowledge." Heads of departments from the Nelson, Turner and Lincoln institutions of learning in Rockford are the ones in the city today and many were the expressions of admiration heard spoken of the Bower City schools. The teachers will return on a late car this afternoon.

COAL STRIKE IS MORE GENERAL

In Trinidad, Colo., District 7,000 Men Are Now Out.

Denver, Nov. 9.—The coal strike in the southern fields has become more general than the most ardent union men predicted. In the Trinidad district there are 7,000 men out, and the situation with the railroads is reported rather critical, as they had been hopeful of a settlement and had not laid in stocks of coal. The eastern lines are in good condition in this respect, as they have been piling up fuel for the last three months. In the northern district the strike is not general, as many of the mines have conceded the demands. Nevertheless 1,500 men are out of work on account of the refusals. In Garfield county, where the mines ship largely to the coast and Utah, besides supplying coke ovens, the men have been allowed by their leaders to continue the contract system, thus preventing a fuel famine on the western slope.

He said he would consider the matter.

No Liquor in Restaurant.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Committee work at this session should progress more rapidly than in recent years, not solely because Mr. Cannon, in accepting the speakership nomination, urged his colleagues to be diligent in discharging their committee obligations, but rather because no intoxicating beverages will be sold in the restaurant at the house end of the capitol.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A good example of this is Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris. He has inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff, and causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Hairicide.

START WAR ON SENATOR SMOOT

Ministers Will Ask His Expulsion From the Senate.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 9.—The fight on Senator Reed Smoot, apostle in the Mormon church, is to be pushed hard by the Salt Lake City ministerial alliance, which has started an embassy to Washington for this purpose. Rev. William M. Paden, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Salt Lake City, is on his way with a vast amount of documentary evidence to be used in a direct attack on the Mormon church and its political power. Among other things it is sought to prove that President Joseph Smith is living in open polygamy and that Senator Smoot tacitly approves the violation of the law. It is charged that polygamy is being encouraged and that Smoot should be unseated.

Stocks Asiatic Vineyards.

The vineyards of central Asia are all from American stock. Ohio has a large and regular export trade in cuttings with all the wine-growing countries, owing largely to the fact that the American vine is free from many common parasites.
